Dear Commissioner Henney:

I urge you to stop the release of new genetically-engineered foods or products with GE ingredients until long-term safety testing has been done. We don't know what allergies may be triggered or if there are other potential health problems. I am greatly concerned by the loss of biodiversity and greater reliance on chemical controls, and the thought that the world's seeds could be controlled through patents owned by a few corporations is truly scary.

Thank you for your attention.

Sincerely,

Anne Helms
